HEY CORN, LEND ME YOUR EAR...

Orlando Russo, 10, of Benvenuto is dwarfed by a field of corn near his home. Many acres of land in this area are planted each year with this crop. The taller varieties which literally tower above ears on each side of the roads are generally used as cattle silage. The shorter corn is sold for human consumption. A regular corny situation, says Orlando, as he pulls an ear over for closer inspection. (Courier photo)

Humphrey Win On First Ballot "Quite Possible"

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Senator Eugene McCarthy says his rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey, could win on the first ballot unless Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia enters the race. "If Maddox comes in, the convention would go to a second or third ballot," McCarthy said Tuesday. "He would draw votes away from Vice-President Humphrey. Otherwise, I think a first ballot should do it."

The Democrats meet in Chicago starting Aug. 26 to nominate their candidates to oppose the Republican ticket of Richard Nixon and Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland in the U.S. general election Nov. 5. Nixon won the presidential nomination and 500 and 800 votes.

Agnew got the vice-presidential nomination at the Republican convention in Miami last week.

Maddox announced that he would have an announcement of whether he would be a first-ballot "major importance." Thursday he said earlier this week he nomination.

was considering running for president, to give the Democrats a true conservative candidate.

McCarthy said at a St. Louis press conference before returning to Washington that a realistic appraisal of his own maximum first-ballot strength is about 800 votes. It will take 1,312 votes for nomination.

McCarthy said Maddox would draw southern votes from Humphrey. "Humphrey and Maddox would be competing for the same delegates," he said.

Leading McCarthy backers, expressing high optimism on the Republican ticket of Richard Nixon and Gov. Spiro Agnew of Maryland, estimated that a Washington news conference his first-ballot delegate strength will be between 500 and 800 votes.

Pilots Vote To Be Counted

MONTREAL (CP) — Votes cast by Air Canada pilots across Canada Tuesday night will be counted here Sunday to determine whether the pilots will ground the airline with strike action.

The 1,000-member Canadian Air Line Pilots Association proceeded to the strike vote after negotiations between the national association and the airline broke down last Sunday.

The pilots are seeking increases which would bring their wages close to those paid U.S. pilots.

A conciliation board headed by Dean Maxwell Cohen of the McGill University law faculty has recommended a 16.5-per-cent increase for the pilots in a 26-month agreement.

Air Canada pilots are currently paid up to $28,000 but C.A.L.P.A. says some earn less than $700 a month.

Fire Destroys Arctic Scrub

INUUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) —

About 95 square miles of timber and scrub arctic brush has been destroyed in a five-day-old forest fire now smouldering beside this Arctic community.

Evidence that the immediate danger may be past came with a reduction Tuesday in firefighter crews and equipment. Only strong winds and hot weather could renew the threat—unlikely as the arctic fall approaches.

Inuvik is 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

Tom Butters, publisher of Inuvik's weekly newspaper, the Daily, said trees up to 160 years old were burned in stands of spruce and birch timber and it will take 100 years for them to grow back.

He shot himself in the foot while inspecting a rifle he stole and needed medical attention.

U.S. Says Hanoi Plans New Drive

PARIS (CP) — The United States told North Vietnam today it has mounting evidence that "you are making plans for another round of large-scale attacks" in South Vietnam.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, beginning the fourth month of his talks with Ambassador Xuan Thuy, also accused the North of blocking progress in peace-making and declared: "We are ready to consider, publicly or privately, any realistic proposal which will advance the cause of peace."

Thuy, who spoke first in today's 17th session of the talks, charged the United States with "obstructing the way toward a correct political settlement."

"The state of these conversations over the past three months, just like the situation in the battlefield in Vietnam, has clearly shown that the bellicose ruling circles in the United States, while talking peace, always plan to intensify the war of aggression in Vietnam and to achieve neo-colonialism in South Vietnam," Thuy said.

Both the Harriman and Thuy speeches were reviews of the talks since they began May 13 and both repeated familiar charges and positions.

Harriman's speech, however, also brought in by implication the issue of whether the full fighting in the South is a move of de-escalation by Hanoi which President Johnson could use to justify ending the bombing of North Vietnam.

Harriman was apparently saying that on the basis of available evidence so far that is not the case.

He said Johnson had limited the bombing of North Vietnam on March 31 so that four-fifths of the country has been free of attack.

KELOWNA DISPUTE:

Companies Challenge Claim That They Add To Pollution

Sun-Rype Products Ltd. is not contributing to pollution problems in Okanagan Lake, general manager Ian Greenwood said Tuesday in Kelowna.

He was replying to statements made earlier by Ald. Hilbert Roth who said Calona Wines Ltd. and Sun-Rype contributed to pollution of the lake and are not doing enough to arrest the situation.

"Neither we, nor the winery, are causing the problems in the lake," Mr. Greenwood said. "It is certainly—or it should be—a well-known fact that sewage from food processing plants like ours is in no way related to the effluent of municipal treatment plants."

He said Sun-Rype, the processing arm of the British Columbia tree fruit industry, puts diluted waste into the lake but it is first put through a partial treatment process.

"We admit it has a high oxygen demand but this is not connected with algae blooms which have been stimulated from nutrients from the municipal treatment plants," he said.

He said the company plans to remove the oxygen from its wastes and is bringing in a specialist from England to work on the problem.

Tom Capozzi, managing director of Calona Wines Ltd., said the Kelowna winery does not discharge any pollutants whatsoever into Okanagan Lake.

"The only water we discharge into the lake is cooling water used for cooling our tanks off," Mr. Capozzi said. "There are absolutely no phosphates or nutrients in that waste at all."

Hospital Expansion Takes Step Forward

The $10,000,000 expansion program of the Kelowna General Hospital took a step forward today when architects were asked to proceed with working drawings on Block C, the chronic care unit.

Estimated cost of the chronic care unit, to contain 70 beds, is $950,000, which does not include the cost of equipment.

The one-storey building will be connected to the new $6,000,000 acute unit, Block B, by a covered link. The chronic care unit will extend westward to Abbott Street and will contain three nursing units.

Although to be a one-storey building now, the chronic care unit will be designed to carry a second storey at some future date.

The chronic care unit will be serviced, with food and laundry, from central services in Block B.

Victor Haddad, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said he was pleased to receive permission from Ralph Loffmark, minister of health services and hospital insurance, to proceed with the working drawings.

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Sir Donald Hopson, beaten and humiliated by Red Guards during three exacting years as Britain's top envoy in China, walked out today convinced his country must retain relations with the Chinese Communists.

CITY PARK ACCIDENT

Dare-Dive Youth Breaks His Back

Accepting a dare resulted in a serious accident to a 17-year-old Dawson Creek youth in the Kelowna City Park Tuesday.

Walter Lawrence is in critical condition in the Kelowna General Hospital today. He is believed to have suffered a broken neck and possible spine injuries after diving into 12 to 18 inches of water from a four-foot concrete retaining wall.

RCMP said the youth, who was attending the summer training camp trying out for the 1968-69 season with the Kelowna Bucharos junior hockey team, was swimming in the City Park with a group of friends when the accident occurred.

The concrete retaining wall runs parallel to a beach area between the Aquatic buildings and the Bernard Avenue entrance gate. With the high water this year, the wall is at the water's edge, with six inches of water at its base.

The youths told police they had dared each other to live from the wall and the injured youth was the first to accept the dare. A beginner's swimming class was in progress nearby.

When his friends saw he did not recover from the dive they removed him from the water at once. He was taken to the hospital by ambulance. The youth was unconscious when taken from Okanagan Lake.

Ald. Thomas Angus, team manager, said Lawrence was trying for the position of centre and was a "good prospect". His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawrence arrived in Kelowna by air Tuesday night. They are at their son's bedside today.

The accident, which happened shortly after 3 p.m., was the third in the City Park this season.

Jan Olszanowski, 16, of Okanagan Lake, drowned in Okanagan Lake while swimming near the Okanagan Lake bridge July 25.

Charles Pratt, 46, St. Paul Street, drowned Sunday in 30 feet of water in Okanagan Lake near the City Park entrance.

Liberals 'Dragging Feet' On Pledges Made To Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative Opposition ended a two-day planning caucus here Tuesday with a charge that the government has delayed in providing it with promised staff and organization help.

"It seems very clear to our caucus that the government is dragging its feet in this regard," Opposition Leader Stanfield told a news conference after conclusion of the sessions.

The charge was immediately rejected by Donald S. Macdonald, new Privy Council president who is to initiate talks with the opposition on expanded staff and organization.

He said John B. Stewart, government adviser on reform of parliamentary procedures, has met Conservative House Leader Gerald Baldwin to get his views on the Opposition's requirements.

Mr. Macdonald said he himself has talked to David Lewis, the NDP House leader, on the same question and that either he or Dr. Stewart plans to get in touch with Creditiste Leader Caouette.

PARTISAN APPROACH "I'm disappointed that he—Mr. Stanfield—seems to be taking a partisan approach to what I had hoped would be a non-partisan question," Mr. Macdonald said.

Dr. Stewart, political scientist and MP for Antigonish-Guysborough, before his defeat in the June election, was recently hired by the government to help in a campaign to make Parliament more effective.

Prime Minister Trudeau announced plans to get in touch with the opposition on its needs in a July 5 statement, when he announced his cabinet lineup.

Greek Police Make Arrests Following Assassination Bid

ATHENS (AP) — Police made new arrests today in the wake of the attempt to assassinate strongman Premier George Papadopoulos.

George Drossos, an Athens journalist and former government press undersecretary, was dragged from his bed by security police before dawn.

Reliable sources said that hours earlier police took Anastassios Peponis, former director-general of the Athens state radio, to security headquarters.

Both Drossos and Peponis were members of the Centre Union party of former premier George Panandrou and his son Andreas, chief targets of the military coup 16 months ago.

Papadopoulos escaped death Tuesday when a bomb exploded 15 yards behind a car taking him to a cabinet meeting in Athens.

A former army commando lieutenant, George Panagoulis, 30, was seized as he tried to flee from the coastal scene 19 miles south of Athens.

The government blamed the attempt on a plot of right-wing plotters. They sought anyone with information about it or two smaller bomb blasts that occurred in central Athens at almost the same time.

A main target of the search was a motorboat which officials said tried to move in through swarms of bathers to pick up Panagoulis.

Balloon Pair Return Home

A former Penitentiary man and his partner are back on dry land after failing to cross the Atlantic in a balloon. They were rescued from the sea by a trawler after flopping down eight miles from their starting point near Halifax, N.S.

Ray Winters and Jerry Kostur, unhurt after their abortive attempt, told reporters they anticipated trouble shortly following their takeoff Saturday.

They were forced to ditch at sea when their supply of helium became insufficient to maintain a proper altitude.

They said their balloon dipped to sea level at least 30 times before they decided to release it and took to a sailing craft slung beneath the balloon.

Mr. Winters, while a resident of Penitentiary, and Dan Ross retraced the route followed by Alexander Mackenzie, canoeing down the Mackenzie River in July, 1900, to the Arctic Ocean.

Nasser 'Better' Following Rest

MOSCOW (AP) — Egyptian President Nasser "looks fit and cheerful" as he rests at the southern spa of Tskhalulo, Tass reported Tuesday. The Soviet news agency did not say how long Nasser intends to stay.

He was admitted July 26 for treatment of a disorder described as an "inflammation of the leg."

MONEY PROBLEMS

British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Roy Jenkins, above has invited the West German Economics Minister, Karl Schiller, to London, Aug. 27. Britain is expected to press for speedier expansion of the West German economy as a method of reducing Bonn's balance-of-payments surplus. Such expansion would benefit deficit-trading countries, especially Britain and the United States. Other topics include the problem of Britain's foreign exchange costs in maintaining troops in West Germany.

Twenty-One Die In L.A. Crash

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — A helicopter carrying children and adults from Los Angeles to Disneyland exploded in a fireball over a playground Wednesday. Police said 21 occupants were killed.

Barnard Ponders Brain Transplant

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Dr. Christian Barnard predicted today that brain transplants might be possible one day and said he would have no objections to performing one.

The South African heart transplant pioneer told a news conference that 50 years ago no one knew how the heart could be transplanted but "now this is done."

Nigeria May Be Starting Push To Finally Crush Biafra Rebels

LAGOS (AP) — Two columns of Nigerian commandos were reported pushing north today toward the Biafran stronghold of Aba in what could be the start of an all-out offensive to crush the 13-month-old secession of eastern Nigeria's Biafran state.

Info-mag sources said at least two battalions of Nigerian and Marine Commando Division were advancing from the Port Harcourt sector toward Aba, the largest of the three towns still under secessionist control.

The military high command in Lagos refused to divulge details of the offensive, but a high-ranking officer said troops commanded by Col. Benjamin Adekunle were reported trying to cross the Imo River, 10 miles south of Aba. Another column was believed pushing across the river at the Imo railway station, about 22 miles from Aba.

Aba, which had a pre-war population of 131,000, has been command headquarters for the Biafran regime of Lt. Col. Chukuemeka Odiaka since federal forces captured the secessionist capital, Lagos, last Oct. 5.

Radio Biafra reported that the Biafran army, on the southern bank of the Imo River, has been under heavy mortar attack for the last three days. The broadcast said 35,000 civilians were fleeing and Biafran authorities were undertaking a massive civilian evacuation from the area.

Missile Blamed In Sea Mishap

A U.S. Navy air-to-air Sidewinder missile was identified Tuesday as the object that smashed into an oil survey vessel and set it afire Monday night, navy officials said in Santa Barbara, Calif.

The 134th Fighter Squadron from Miramar Naval Air Station near San Diego was firing Sidewinders at flare targets in the sea test range nearby.

Three members of the 18-man crew were injured.

'Hard Slog' Term Sounds In U.K.

LONDON (CP) — Renewed emphasis on the "hard slog" has appeared here after a chilly wind that gusts through the seemingly resurgent British economy Tuesday.

The wind was generated by a government announcement that the country's chronic deficit on international trade rose to $208,000,000 for July compared with $130,000,000 for June.

Accounts of the figures broadcast in Britain emphasized record exports for the month. But critics of Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government pointed at the even bigger jump in imports, which also achieved an all-time high.

Imports in July totaled $1,723,800,000—up $143,000,000. Exports and re-exports rose to $1,375,400,000 up $52,000,000. Conservative commentators gleefully juxtaposed the figures with a recent Wilson statement.

The prime minister, somewhat luckless with any optimistic forecasts he has made, had quoted a "view objectively expressed" as predicting an "economic miracle" for Britain.

The weeks before July's trade figures were announced had rung with more optimism about national economic prospects than any period since devaluation of the pound last November.

This euphoria now has given way to the kind of "hard slog" talk common in November.

The government was reported strengthened in its resolve to persist with its policy of limiting incomes, despite trade-union discontent, and with other forms of tight economic controls.

Optimism about car exports is tinged with apprehension over reported plans by North American car makers for countering the sales boom enjoyed on that continent by British and other foreign motor companies.

Detroit auto-makers are reported planning small-car production to compete with the imports.

Students Climb Mount Kennedy

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — The previously unclimbed north ridge of Mount Kennedy in the Yukon has been conquered by a group of Dartmouth students, the university reported Tuesday.

Officials said it took 35 days for the four students to scale the 14,000-foot peak.

The four—David Seidman of South Norwalk, Conn., Philip Och of South Burlington, Vt., Todd Thompson of Los Alta, Calif., and Joseph Faint of Yosemite, Calif.—sent word of their feat in a telegram.

They achieved the summit on July 23, via the steep north ridge, which has turned back several climbers. Delay in notification was caused by the time it took the four to make their way back to Juneau, Alaska.

Two-Way Rights Backed For Indians In Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-eight representatives of southern Ontario Indians and a federal government official agreed Tuesday that Indians should have full benefits of Canadian citizenship while still retaining treaty-granted Indian rights.

"My feeling is that Indians are entitled to citizenship plus Indian rights for a long, long time to come," said Robert Andras, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Andras, member of Parliament for Port Arthur, heads a government group meeting with representatives of Canada's 219,000 treaty Indians in an effort to rewrite the Indian Act.

The three-day Toronto meeting, which ends today, is the third of 18 such meetings to be held across Canada. Previous meetings were held in Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Moncton, N.B. Next stops will be Sudbury and Fort William in Northern Ontario.

All delegates agreed the section of the 1951 Indian Act dealing with Indian enfranchisement should be deleted.

Under the Indian Act an enfranchised Indian becomes a Canadian citizen, but may not live on a reserve or legally own reserve property, even though the band council approves.

Chief Edsel Dodge, a Walpole Island delegate, said that "section 108 has come under more criticism than any other section of the act."

The court remanded the case to the Federal Power Commission for further consideration. Sogemines rose ½ to 14½. Six-month earnings were up to 63 cents a share compared with 42 cents a year ago.

Albert DeSalvo, 36, who maintains he is the Boston Strangler, has failed in a bid to win a reduction of his seven-to-10-year sentence for escaping from Bridgewater State Hospital in February, 1967. DeSalvo was captured the day after he killed 13 women in Greater Boston. In January, 1967, he was convicted for assaulting four women and was sentenced to a life term. The assaults were not related to the stranglings.

JOE MARTY STANDS WHERE FATHER PANDOSY ONCE GAVE KELOWNA AREA ITS START
... public support still required to restore one of B.C.'s most historic sites

Restoring History A Full-time Job

By TERRY UTLEY
Courier Staff Writer

If the historical Father Pandosy Mission on Benvenuto Road is ever fully restored, much credit will be due to a 65-year-old Kelowna man.

Joseph Marty is spending something like nine hours a day, five and sometimes six days a week, working on projects either at the site or at his home. His time is given voluntarily, without pay.

A retired mill worker with carpentry and mechanical ability, he is a natural for restoring old buildings and machinery.

He began cleaning them and chinking cracks in the logs. One of the buildings has been restored as it might have been in Father Pandosy's day, and is open to the public.

OLD WOOD
First wood had to be found of a similar age and color. An old building was dismantled and used for floors and furniture in the restoration project.

Mr. Marty first became interested in the mission in February 1967, through the Knights of Columbus. Representatives of the Knights and the Okanagan Historical Society had formed a committee for the restoration of the two-acre site.

When Mr. Marty first started working with the committee, there were three original buildings on the site, all badly in need of repair.

He began cleaning them and chinking cracks in the logs. One of the buildings has been restored as it might have been in Father Pandosy's day, and is open to the public.

OLD WOOD
First wood had to be found of a similar age and color. An old building was dismantled and used for floors and furniture in the restoration project.

Mr. Marty made a wood bed, a hand-hewn table and stool, a corner cupboard and an oak bucket. With a wood stove, the room might have resembled the one used by Father Pandosy.

Mrs. John Surtees restored a figure of Father Pandosy, donated by the Kelowna museum, which was added to the exhibit. (Vandals recently broke into the building and damaged the figure, which is now being repaired.)

MANY DONATED
Many fine pieces of old farm machinery have been donated and Mr. Marty built a machine shed to house them. The logs for the shed were donated by the S. M. Simpson division of Crown Zellerbach.

His next project was construction of a nail-free Russell-style five-rail fence across the width of the two-acre site.

The committee acquired two additional buildings, one of them the McDougall house, home of a pioneer employee of the Hudson Bay Company. Mr. Marty would like to see the home restored by next May, as it might have been when used by the original owner.

On rainy days, Mr. Marty takes the old machinery apart and puts it together in running order. Other days he works on furniture, or maybe makes a trip to the woods to find dry logs.

TRIPS HELD
Last summer he obtained some ancient oblate vestments. This summer, he stopped in Nanaimo to get historical information from an oblate historian.

Mr. Marty is looking now for a Lacombe ladder, probably used by Father Pandosy to teach Bible history to the Indians. It is a roll of parchment about nine-feet-long, which when unrolled, told in pictures the story of the creation of the world. Mr. Marty learned his catechism from such a scroll.

The ladder was based on a "sahale", a stick used by early missionaries to explain the Bible stories, somewhat in the manner of a totem pole. Father Lacombe adopted the stick method to drawings on a scroll.

SUPPORT SOUGHT
Lack of public support and money has slowed progress of the restoration. Mr. Marty says money is needed to hire workers and to buy some early antiques.

He would like to have a list of volunteers who would be willing to donate their help when needed.

Mr. Marty would like to see someone donate equipment to form an artificial lake from a slough on the property. He hopes to erect a windmill to keep the water moving.

Also being sought is more information on Father Vorbeck, the first resident priest to follow Father Pandosy.

Recent donations include an early statue donated by the Sisters of St. Anne in New Westminster and an ancient oblate cross from St. Peter's Church in the same city.

W. L. B. Hawker, former principal of the Dr. Knox Secondary School, who left last year to become district superintendent of Fort Nelson, Portage Mountain and Stikine school districts, has been transferred to the Maple Ridge School District with headquarters in Haney.

The amount of traffic on the Rogers Pass, both east and westbound, for the month of June exceeded by nearly 6,000 the amount for the corresponding period a year ago. The most noticeable statistic in a report issued by V. P. Rolfe, superintendent of Mount Revelstoke and Glacier National Parks, was the number of vehicles travelling east. The reversal was primarily the result of more Canadian cars entering the province. The registered total at the east gate (westbound) for the month was 35,552, compared with 33,095 at the west gate. The cumulative totals since April 1, 1968 are 77,000 westbound and 79,000 eastbound.

Farm Harvester Surplus Decreasing In Okanagan

A general decrease in the surplus of workers in the Okanagan is reported by the Canada Manpower Farm Labor Board and most areas are now approaching a balanced labor supply and demand situation.

The peach harvest is under way in the South Okanagan and Bartlett pears are being picked in the extreme south end of the Valley. This year harvest is expected to be generally under way throughout the Okanagan by Tuesday.

In the Kelowna, Rutland and Winfield area the sour cherry harvest is complete. There is a slight surplus of help but an increased demand is expected next week.

Oyama reports little activity and a surplus of help in the area.

Harvesting of semi-ripe tomatoes and an early variety of apples is under way in Vernon.

The southern end of the Valley has completed its apricot harvest and picking of peaches and Bartlett pears is under way. Generally there is a surplus of help in the area.

Orchardists are asked to place their orders with their local farm labor representative immediately. This information is required now, in order to ensure an adequate labor force to harvest the crop.

Wide Range Of Speakers Set For PNTA Conference

The Pacific Northwest Trade Association will hold its 60th general conference at the Capri Sept. 15, 16, 17.

Under the title Thought For Food, the theme of the conference will be Food Processing, Technology and Packaging.

Food production and marketing is the major industry of the Pacific Northwest. Each area in the region covered by the association produces an abundance of some type of food of first quality. The agriculture and horticulture interests are tremendous and the processing and packaging interests contribute much toward the economy.

The aim of the conference is to throw light on the ramifications of a North American industry producing 7,500 items of food valued at $70 billion annually.

While the Pacific Northwest is producing more food than it can consume or dispose of commercially, there are millions of people throughout North America who go to bed hungry and 10,000 people throughout the world who starve to death every day.

The reasons for this anomaly will be examined, also the pros and cons of selling foodstuffs to those countries behind the bamboo and iron curtains.

Experts will deal with each facet of the conference theme. The keynote speaker will be General Jayant Chaudhuri, Indian government high commissioner in Canada. As India's diplomatic representative in Ottawa, General Chaudhuri will have an inspiring and informative message from one of the countries obtaining food supplies from America and Canada.

General Chaudhuri was formerly chief of staff of the Indian Army. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College in Sandhurst, England, and the first Indian to be appointed senior instructor of the staff college in Quetta. He commanded the Indian Armed Forces contingent to the victory parade in London in 1945 and was appointed chief of the army staff in 1962, a position he held until his retirement in 1966, when he took up his present appointment. In addition to being a great soldier and administrator, General Chaudhuri is a writer and literary critic, an eloquent speaker and the founder of the Delhi Symphony Society.

During the conference there will be an address by the well-known gastronomic critic and Seattle Post-Intelligencer columnist, Stan Reed, who will speak of Pacific Northwest foods from the diner's point of view.

The final session will be a luncheon on Sept. 17, when the speaker will be a senior official from the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D.C.

A car crashed into a lamp standard at Bertram Street and Bernard Avenue, in one of two accidents reported to police Tuesday.

Driver was George Musselman, Mountain Avenue. He told police he swerved to avoid another vehicle. The lamp standard was undamaged but damage to the car was estimated at $350. There were no injuries. The accident occurred at 1 p.m.

Cars driven by Barbara Scarrow, Winfield and Eugene Laballe, New Westminster, collided at 11 a.m., at the intersection of Beaver Lake and Wood Lake roads, Winfield. Damage was about $300. No one was injured.

Joseph Podvin, formerly with J.F. Auto Sales Ltd., Lawrence Avenue, told police Tuesday at 8 p.m., during the past five weeks, someone removed auto parts from the building, for a total value of $200 to $300. There was no sign of a forced entry.

OTTAWA (Special) — First estimates of commercial fruit production in British Columbia show a drop this year from corresponding figures for 1967.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics report early estimates place commercial production lower in the province for strawberries, raspberries and sweet cherries. Later estimates are expected to increase the totals.

B.C. strawberry production was set at 7,711,000 quarts this year, compared with 10,949,000 quarts in 1967. In terms of tons, production was estimated at 5,183, compared with 8,212 tons one year ago.

Raspberry production is estimated at 8,000,000 quarts this year against 11,400,000 quarts last year, compared with 6,662 tons, compared with 7,850 for 1967.

College Course To Be Flexible

Students attending the Okanagan Regional College this fall will have two broad programs from which to choose, with some freedom in each general field.

The two programs, arts and science, and applied arts and technology allows students to branch out, in the case of the latter, into particular areas in the above management, and with the former decide between a diploma or credits toward a degree.

A college calendar released Monday describes the arts and science course as designed to prepare students for transfer to a university, which may be used as credit or toward a college diploma.

The transferability of college courses depends upon the university to which the successful student applies, but students are advised to complete a minimum of 30 hours of course work each year.

In the arts section of the arts and science program students are required to take English 101, French 101 or 102 or German 101, plus six credit hours chosen from biology 101, 102, chemistry 101, 102, physics 101, 102, mathematics 101, 102 and 12 credit hours chosen from geography 101 and psychology 101.

Science majors must take English 101, mathematics 102, 12 credit hours chosen from biology 101, 102, chemistry 101, 102 and physics, and six additional credit hours in the sciences or other courses from the following: French 101, 102, German 101, psychology 101 or economics 101.

Courses in the applied arts and technology field are arranged to allow transfer to certain second-year courses at British Columbia Institute of Technology. Credit hours may also be applied toward further training at Okanagan College which will lead to a diploma.

Scientific technical courses are restricted to those which are electrical and electronics oriented.

The college will offer core courses and electives which lead to specialization in automation of industrial operations, electrical power system design and installation, electronics design, manufacture and installation, technical broadcast equipment installation and operation and biomedical electronics.

The program provides a thorough grounding in the electrical-electronic field which enables the successful student to enter his area of specialization well-equipped.

Business management will also be taught on the applied arts and technology program. The course consists of a group of basic courses necessary for all types of business supervisory and management positions and electives chosen to suit the particular business environment desired.

Graduates of this program may enter such areas of employment as: planning, research, finance, organization, day.

The reasons for this anomaly will be examined, also the pros and cons of selling foodstuffs to those countries behind the bamboo and iron curtains.

The college year is divided into two regular terms and a special term; the fall term, from September to December, winter term January to April and the special term May to June.

Students may be admitted to the institution as regular or conditional students. The regular student meets the admission requirements of the college by graduating from an approved secondary school, or completing his education in another system, as a mature student or by passing college entrance exams.

A conditional student is one who is deficient in not more than two final courses for secondary school graduation on the academic or technical program and whose secondary school record indicates a good potential for further education.

The college opens with registration in the three centres, Kelowna, Salmon Arm and Vernon Centre Sept. 5, 6 and 9 respectively. The fall term starts Sept. 10 and ends Dec. 11. Examinations run from Dec. 12-20.

The winter session, opening Jan. 16 ends for non-technology courses May 3 and for technology courses June 6, the last day of examinations.

Donations are pouring in to the South Kelowna store for a family who lost all their possessions in a fire Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Raschke, Miller Rd., RR 3, South Kelowna, lost their home and clothing in a fire of unknown origin.

The fire, which started between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., burned to the ground a house and shed. The shed contained some equipment. The loss is estimated at $15,000 and is partially covered by insurance.

The family have eight children, six boys and two girls, aged two to 12 years.

Mrs. Raschke said she was working in the garden when she noticed smoke coming from the Simpson's sawmill.

The family is living with Mr. Raschke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raschke, Groves Avenue. The owner of the burned home, Herbert Raschke, is assistant superintendent at the Simpson's sawmill.

Keeping the peace in Kelowna this summer, and the RCMP reports July has been the busiest month so far in 1968.

Police statistics compiled for that month (traditionally second only to August for lawlessness) also show a burgeoning increase in all manner of minor violations when compared to the same period for other years.

The number of complaints investigated by RCMP provides a good index of the steadily growing increase in police duties.

During July 1968, a total of 470 complaints were investigated, RCMP travelling 6,149 miles doing routine work. The previous year's figure for the same month was 380 complaints, with similar mileage. In 1966, there were 362 complaints, and the mileage added up to 5,521.

In the traffic division, a total of 847 voluntary penalties for overparking were paid; this is a jump from the 1966 figure of 184 voluntary penalties. (The figures for 1967 are unavailable.) Police issued 140 warning tickets to illegally parked cars, compared with 103 in July, 1967. The same number of courtesy tickets—for out-of-town drivers—were issued somewhat less than the 1967 figure.

Revenue collected in magistrate's court through fines totaled $4,424 for municipal cases; $450 for federal penalties. This is comparable with other years.

Bylaw infractions of various nature netted the city $364 in penalties, more than twice the amount collected in July, 1967.

RCMP also noted a large increase in the number of business places found unlocked, amounting to 15 in July. There was only one merchant to make this careless slip in the same month of last year and three in 1966.

A better situation was found by the city's maintenance department this July, with only one street light found out of order. There were four and five in the previous two Julys. Four fires were investigated, comparable to other years.

For stolen bicycles, the record is also changing. In 1966, there were 22 bicycles stolen, 21 recovered by RCMP. The figures in 1967 were 14 stolen, 15 recovered. But this year, July ended with 15 two-wheeled vehicles of the pedal variety stolen, only four recovered.

Sure to warm the heart of free boarders in the police cells is the fact the RCMP spent $320 to feed the prisoners and guards this July. Last July the expense was $294, and in 1966 a meagre $80.

Dr. Klaus Mueller, director of the Okanagan Game Farm south of Penticton, was the guest speaker at Kelowna Rotary Club's luncheon Tuesday.

Dr. Mueller spoke on "Animals in captivity" and he brought with him a badger to show how ferocious animals can be happy in captivity.

He said the badger is one of Canada's most ferocious animals and will attack anything it can get its paws on.

He said keeping animals in captivity is not new but dates back to 4,000 years B.C.

Taking animals out of the natural environment and putting them in captivity has been questioned many times but he said it is done because people enjoy getting a closer look at animals than they would from a distance in the wilds.

Much more research can be made on animals if they are in captivity and the information obtained can help preserve them.

Children can observe animals behaving in zoos and can then go into the wilds and appreciate them. Animals just want to be left to themselves he said. They want to play and build their dens and not be harmed.

Scientists can observe behavior, feeding habits and patterns by using game farms and zoos he said.

It even applies to human beings. Scientists study certain patterns of human behavior in apes and this can be done with animals only in captivity.

He quoted an old saying that the missing link between apes and human beings are us.

Animals in captivity if treated well, fed palatable food and given lots of running room and happy stay at game farms and zoos.

There is a shortage of postal boxes available for rent in the Kelowna Post Office.

The shortage is expected to continue until the new post office is built.

Jack Needham, assistant postmaster, said there are 575 boxes and all are rented.

"We could use another 100 easily," he said, "but there is no space in the building for more."

Anyone who requires a box desperately could try at 8 a.m. on the first of the month, when a cancellation might be available, he said.

A start on a new federal building, to include a post office, is hoped for this fall by local officials. The building will be located at Queensway and Esna Street.

The Itinerant Leader

It now appears that T. C. Douglas will be running as the New Democratic candidate in Nanaimo-The Islands when the byelection is called to fill the seat following the recent death of Colin Cameron.

It is no secret that more than one of the leading provincial NDP figures has considered grasping the opportunity of entering the Commons by way of the byelection in this very safe NDP seat. It has even been suggested that the provincial leader himself had taken a good look at this Commons vacancy and that his candidature would solve a touchy provincial leadership problem.

But now, it appears that enough pressure has been brought to bear on the other aspirants to force them to withdraw to leave the way open for Mr. Douglas. If he does run and does get elected he may well go down in history as the "itinerant leader" having moved to three different constituencies in three general elections. Regina, Burnaby and Nanaimo-The Islands.

Originally, following his defeat Mr. Douglas announced he would step down from the party leadership next summer when the party holds its biennial convention. Now, with the possibility of him obtaining a seat in the Commons, some members of the NDP caucus are talking openly of him remaining in office a further two years.

The NDP members who would like to see him stay on as leader make two points. One is that the next federal election is not expected before 1972. Both the Liberal and Conservative parties benefitted politically by holding leadership conventions, although the Conservative upsurge was more than counteracted by the enthusiasm for the Liberals new leader, Prime Minister Trudeau. These NDP members argue that it would be almost perfect timing to elect a new, young leader in the summer or fall of 1971, only months before the next federal election.

Their second point is that of the talked-about successors to Mr. Douglas, none has had the time to establish himself as a truly national figure. Douglas Fisher, one of the best known and most widely supported leadership aspirants, lost his bid for election in Toronto. Laurier Lapierre and Charles Taylor suffered similar fates in Montreal.

Of the NDP members elected, a number such as Stanley Knowles, David Lewis and Andrew Brewin are either too old or have no leadership ambitions. Max Saltzman, the up and coming NDP financial critic, could use the extra two years to establish a national reputation.

Despite the failure to increase its representation in the Commons, the New Democratic Party will have an increasingly important role to play in the next decade, in the view of one of the party's veteran MPs, Stanley Knowles.

In an interview with the Ottawa bureau of Thomson Newspapers, Mr. Knowles said the problems that are facing, and will face, Canada will be greater than ever in the future. He mentioned urban development, federal aid to education and the special problems involving young people and the aged.

"I feel our party is well equipped to make a significant contribution to bring about a good society for all Canadians and I am not one of those who believe the older parties have stolen our philosophy or relegated us to a less important role in Canadian affairs," Mr. Knowles declares.

He agrees that the methods and formulas used by the NDP today are far removed from those laid down at the founding convention of the old CCF in Regina in 1933. The party must continue to change its approach and its policies to meet modern conditions, the NDP house leader and whip believes.

Mr. Knowles said he expects there will eventually be a realignment among the political parties with left and right wings of each moving together, perhaps to form two new, major parties. But he doesn't expect this will happen for some time.

As far as the failure of the NDP to increase its strength in the Commons, he feels this can be attributed to a number of factors which have worked against it from time to time. In the present instance, Trudeau was the major factor, he believes, in cutting into NDP strength in urban areas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SUGGESTIONS
(Editor's Note: The following is a letter sent to the minister of highways, Victoria, B.C.)

Dear Sir:
While driving around our province I have to congratulate our highways department on the general condition of the roads. In the interests of safety I have two suggestions to offer for your consideration, which from my personal experience, I think would tend to reduce the accident rate:

- (1) That a sign should be erected at about one mile to one-half mile before a double line highway starts, indicating that a safe passing area was approaching.
 - (2) That the end of a double line highway be marked earlier than is now the case.
- With regards to the first item I have so often seen cars attempting risky and even dangerous overtakes just before a double highway. Such people do not know, being strangers, that a safe area for passing slow traffic is only short distance ahead of them. With regards to the second item I have seen cars attempt to pass when the double highway is due to change to a single line of traffic and they have narrowly missed trouble when faced by the oncoming traffic, while they were still too abreast on their own side, after the highway has narrowed.

Perhaps the above suggestions would be helpful in reducing the accidents that occur all too frequently on our excellent highways.

Yours sincerely,
W. R. CARRUTHERS

SPEEDWAY UNSAFE

Sir:
Safety precautions at Billy Foster Speedway appalling. I have been a racing fan for many years and for the past two years in Kelowna. I have never seen such neglect for the safety of the drivers.

There should be at all times a man at each end of the track with a fire extinguisher, in case a car rolls, and leaking gas causes a fire.

By the time a man ran to the car from the middle of the pit, the driver wouldn't have a chance.

If there is a spin-out at either end of the track, there is no one there to hold a warning flag for the drivers. I think safety precautions at the speedway are nil.

The management should spend a few dollars, for a change, and think of the drivers' after all, if it wasn't for them, there wouldn't be a crowd.

Maybe someone would donate their services, if they can't afford it, although from what I hear the drivers receive for winning a race it is a mere pittance, so surely there would be enough left over for a man at each end of the track.

Burma Aims To Cut Opium

RANGOON (Reuters)—The government has warned Burmese farmers to switch from the traditional cultivation of opium poppies to rice in a move aimed at cutting off one of the world's major drug sources.

Pamphlets warn that the government will destroy poppy plantations whenever and wherever they are found.

Farmers are urged to substitute rice, corn, wheat and potatoes for the poppies.

The pamphlets are the latest move in a drive originally launched by the government in 1960 to eliminate poppy plantations, estimated to cover tens of thousands of acres in some areas.

Officials claimed some of the opium from the poppies finds its way to Far East and Middle East centers.

An average of one ton is seized by Burmese customs men each year and heavy punishments imposed on the traffickers.

The government's three-year plan also aims to provide treatment for Burma's estimated 90,000 opium addicts. So far 30,000 have been treated at the official anti-opium clinic.

Doctors are being trained in opium addiction treatment and Burma's Dangerous Drugs Act is being extended into various states where it previously did not apply.

The government also has opened opium-buying centres to take the opium out of the market until the poppy plantations can be eliminated. This opium is then sent to the state-owned pharmaceutical industry for preparation of drugs for medical use.

Montreal's Police Acquire Shotguns

MONTREAL (CP)—Rapid-fire lightweight shotguns, for short-range use and for riot control, have been installed in each of the five police cruisers in suburban Dorval.

A special electronic locking device has been fitted to the dashboards of the cruisers to hold the new Model 10 weapons vertically between the two officers and prevent theft.

To free the 27-inch-long guns, an officer simply presses a button which activates the electronic lock.

Dorval Police Director Alexander Niel said:

"We were prompted to purchase the new shotguns not only for the protection of our staff and citizens, but to be able to cope with criminals who are armed with everything from sawed-off shotguns to M-1 sub-machine-guns."

He adds that every member of the 46-man force is being trained in handling the guns in firing of firing five shots automatically.

Firing three shots rapidly in a demonstration, Director Niel had a live-fire target of a man with 21 lead balls of a total of 36 contained in the shells from 75 feet.

X Marks Spot, At Polls Still

OTTAWA (Special)—The use of ball point pens and check marks on ballots in the June 25 election may have made a difference in three or four close ridings where recounts were held. Despite this, there is a strong possibility that the rules governing these points will not be changed, in the opinion of J. M. Hamel, chief electoral officer for Canada.

In an interview Mr. Hamel said that the use of ball points and check marks instead of the called-for X made with a black pencil would likely be discussed by the Commons committee on election procedures when it meets in the new parliament.

But his own view is that the present rules are sound, the security of the ballot and that changes should be made only after very serious consideration.

He points out that if the rules were relaxed a candidate could instruct a voter or voters to mark his ballot with a red, blue or green ball point, or in some other way so as to make it easily identifiable. This, he feels, could lead to pressure being put on voters.

One province, Saskatchewan, does allow the use of ball point pens and in one federal election a recount judge did allow some ballots that had been marked in ink.

Mr. Hamel is not so firm on the use of a check mark as opposed to an X. He admits that a check sign has generally come to be regarded as a mark of approval whereas an X is usually taken for the opposite. But the present rules call for an X and deputy returning officers were instructed to adhere closely to the rule in the recent election.

Voting machines are not the answer in Canada, Mr. Hamel contends. Some 50,000 of them would be needed, at a cost of close to $2,000 each. And there would be problems of transportation, servicing, spare parts and repairs, especially in remote areas where only 25 or 50 people were eligible to vote at a poll. They make more sense in U.S. elections where voters often have to cast 25 or 30 votes in an election, he believes.

OTTAWA REPORT

Doggiest Dog-Days Hot, Damp In Ottawa

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

"Could you tell me why your shirt is so wet?" my friend the doorman asked as I left the parliament building.

"Yes," I replied, always obliging. "It's raining heavily in the library."

The doorman looked puzzled. It was the doggiest of Ottawa's few dog-days, in this non-summer. Late-July, shade temperature 92 and the relative humidity nudging 64. That combination of heat and moisture gives a humidex rating just over 14, the magic figure at which many types of labor must be restricted.

Some people even find it tough to pick up a pencil, said Ottawa's resident meteorologist. Understanding authority had saved Canada's civil servants from such a fate that afternoon: they had been excused from work at 2:30 p.m. and sent home.

Which, once again, proves Shakespeare's assertion that what pleases not a million is yet caviar to the general. That afternoon the bureaucrats in Washington's steamy bottom were working; but six months earlier, the roles were reversed: Canadian bureaucrats were at work while the blizzard blew, but Washington's bureaucrats were idly sent home because three inches of snow had snarled traffic.

ARE YOU UNCOMFORTABLE?

What is this thing called humidex? It suddenly assaults our ears when the weather makes us feel uncomfortable. Indeed, it is our old friend the Discomfort Index under a new name, and calculated by a slightly different formula. The Discomfort Index was murdered and buried to please the masses; it was psychologically unpleasant to be told by the meteorologists that the combination of temperature and humidity should make one feel discomfort. One was expected to feel spiritless, therefore one did.

Humidex is designed as a measure of the discomfort effect of temperature and humidity combined. It is usually quoted when it is between 70 and 140. The low figure represents a temperature of "comfortable"; from 85 to 99 people feel "varying degrees of discomfort"; more people suffer more discomfort as the index rises above 100; at 114 "almost everyone is uncomfortable." Then above 114 "many types of labor must be restricted."

Meteorologists are helpful people. The officials here not only tell us when we should feel discomfort, they also tell us what to do about it—expend no energy, and lie in water cooler than in the sun.

All kids know this instinctively: Become a waterhole rat.

In the absence of a waterhole, or a bathtub, one can enjoy psychosomatic chill. Think of the months ahead, say January and February, when the meteorologists will be bothering us, not with humidex but with the "Wind Chill Factor." That, as you don't need to be reminded, is another scientific formula for telling us how temperatures can be aggravated by another factor; in that case, low temperatures are made chillier by a brisk wind.

TORONTO DISTRICT SUFFERS

But this is rare in Canada. Near a large body of water, conditions become grim when the temperature is really high. This happens most frequently along Ontario's Golden Horseshoe, from Oshawa running west and south through Toronto and Oakville to Welland. Humidex can be expected to reach an intensely uncomfortable 120 on several summer days there; that might be caused by the combination of, say 94 degrees of heat and 65 per cent humidity. A change of one degree of heat or of two to three percentage points of humidity moves the humidex three points.

Must Stay Competitive

(Financial Post)

Basic and prompt reorganization of almost all of Canadian manufacturing to gain longer, more efficient, more highly specialized production runs is necessary to safeguard future living standards and provide tomorrow's jobs.

Even in Canada's giant pulp and paper industry, which exports vast quantities of pulp and newsprint, competition in a free world would require a substantial amount of reorganization and rationalization to maintain or expand markets. This would involve a complete rethinking of existing antitrust laws and a reorientation of our transportation facilities from east-west to north-south.

These competitive facts of life evident in pulp and paper and even more so in furniture manufacturing exists throughout all of Canadian production.

The private Planning Association of Canada, in studies just released, would begin the process of change by tearing down tariff walls and subsidizing the development of more efficient industries. Certainly what is clearly needed is profound change in the government's idea of an appropriate climate for modern industrial growth, and new drive and imagination among businessmen in whose hands, after all, the future of business rests.

Pregnancy Veil Worries Women

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:
I follow your column quite often, but one thing I do not find anyone writing to you about is the marking of "pregnancy veil" which bothers a lot of women who take "the pill" for contraception.

Is there any lotion or cream whatever on the market to fade this darkening of the skin people? — Mrs. G. F.

I started mentioning this condition a year or two ago, but it's easy to miss reading the column on the right day!

This darkening of the skin is called "loasma" (clo-AZ-muh) and also has been dubbed "the mask of pregnancy" long before the pill was in vogue.

It is darkening which occurs, in some women, when they are pregnant and fades out afterward.

Now it is being noticed in some women who use the pill—and since the pill causes the endocrine system to take on the characteristics that occur in pregnancy, this "false pregnancy" evidently misleads the skin tissues, and they react as they would in a real pregnancy. As I said, not all women are subject to this; just some.

As the discoloration fades at termination of a pregnancy, it also may fade when the pill is discontinued — although apparently it may take quite a bit of time.

Anyway, sometimes the marks are quite persistent, and naturally cause more concern if they happen to appear on the face.

If they don't fade, I understand that dermatologists have an ointment, containing monobenzone, which can get rid of the marks. This ointment can be irritating to normal skin, however, must be prescribed by and used under direction of someone who understands proper use of it — meaning, as I said, a dermatologist or skin specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like your evaluation of the following daily diet: one bowl of wheat cereal, two eggs, two glasses skim milk, 1 1/2 pounds lean meat (or fish) half head lettuce, or cabbage with oil and vinegar, about four servings of gelatin, dessert, coffee with each meal, half grapefruit.

What might be the deficiency if any in this diet? — A.S.

You do not tell me your age, sir, nor give me any idea how strenuous a life you lead or what weight and physical status are. Or whether you have any trouble with constipation.

The diet is relatively low in carbohydrate (bread, potato, rice, starchy foods) but the amount needed would depend on how much energy you expend.

It is also low in bulk, which might affect elimination. Addition of another vegetable, or more fruit, would increase bulk and also augment vitamin C content, which in that diet you get primarily only from the grapefruit.

The protein content (which is important) is inadequate, and if you are weight conscious the caloric value is satisfactory.

Dear Dr. Molner, If a tampon is inserted too far and one cannot reach the string to remove it, what should one do? Go to a doctor, or will it work out by itself? — Mrs. B.F.

Go to a doctor. This sort of thing happens more often than you might suppose.

Removal by a doctor is a very simple procedure. If left in, the tampon acts as a foreign body and sets up irritation resulting in a foul discharge.

NOTE to Mrs. D.C.: This patchy loss of pigment of coloring in the skin (vitiligo) is not the result of dietary deficiency. The actual cause is not known. It is not a harmful ailment; it just doesn't look good.

CANADA'S STORY

Sons Of George III Enjoyed Quebec Visit

By BOB HOWMAN

Quebec was the city "where the action is" between the American Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. The presence of two sons of King George III helped to keep the social wheel whirling.

Prince William, who became King William IV, arrived there on Aug. 14, 1787. He was the captain of HMS Pegasus, a warship of 84 guns, and a sailor who had at least one girl in every port. His wild exploits earned all the way from Havana to Montreal, but nevertheless he was a fine seaman. Horatio Nelson, who was patrolling the same area as captain of the Albemarle was a great admirer of Prince William as a seaman although he was not as enthusiastic about his other exploits. However, Nelson also had a romantic experience in Quebec five years before Prince William arrived.

Prince Edward was the other son of King George III who played a prominent part in the life of Quebec. He was commander of the garrison there in 1791 and enjoyed his association with French-speaking Canadians. He once stopped a racial riot at Quebec by shouting in his best soldier's voice "Let me hear no more of these odious distinctions of French and English. You are all His Britannic Majesty's beloved Canadian subjects."

Unlike his brother, Edward had only one great romance in his life. She was Alphonse Thérèse Julie de Montigny de St. Laurent, Marquise de Forti, a young, beautiful French noblewoman, married to a French nobleman. They lived together as man and wife for many years, but could not get married because she was a commoner. Eventually they were forced to separate and Edward could marry a girl of royal blood and produce an heir to the throne who became Queen Victoria. "Julie" it is said entered a convent.

OTHER EVENTS ON AUG. 14:

- 1756—Montcalm captured Oswego, N.Y.
- 1803 Lord Selkirk arrived in Prince Edward Island with settlers.
- 1814 British-Canadian force under General Drummond was repulsed by Americans in night attack on Fort Erie.
- 1848 Act of Union was amended repealing clause that made English the only official language in Canada.
- 1861 Nearly one-quarter of Montreal was under water owing to flood.
- 1877 Northwest Council passed laws to conserve buffalo.
- 1870—Sir John A. Macdonald was made member of British Privy Council.
- 1886 Royal Commission on railways appointed.
- 1934 John S. Labatt was kidnapped for $150,000 ransom. He was released in Toronto three days later.
- 1945—Japan surrendered unconditionally.
- 1961 Provincial premier met in Charlottetown.

Two More Victories Gives Title To Royals

The Royal Anne Royals are within three victories of winning the Kelowna and District Senior B Softball Championship.

Led by Nick Bulach, Norbert Korthals and Bunny Combes, the Royals racked up a 5-0 victory over the Willow Inn Willows Tuesday to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven final series. The Royals have a chance to wrap up the series by winning games Thursday and Saturday.

Bulach provided most of the offensive punch Tuesday, slugging out his second homer in two games and driving in a pair of runs with a double. His double, coming in the second inning, put the Royals into a 3-0 lead.

When Bulach scored later in the frame, the Willows found themselves trailing by four runs.

The Royals scored one run in the first inning after Wayne Horning led off by gaining first base on an error. He was picked off at second base but showed the way to Korthals, who singled and scored on Ed Sehn's single.

In the second inning, Rod Bennett and Jack Unser led off with singles. Horning went to first on a fielder's choice which retired Bennett at home plate. But Bulach stepped up and drilled a double, driving in two runs. He scored when Korthals singled.

Bulach's homer with nobody aboard in the seventh inning ended the Royals' scoring. Korthals, with three hits in three official times at bat, shared the offensive lead with Bulach. While the Royals were pouncing on losing pitcher Larry Yeast for five runs, Bunny Combes was setting down the Willows in almost methodical fashion.

The winning pitcher, he didn't give up a hit until the fourth inning and made amends for that little error by striking out the final four batters to face him. In all, Combes struck out nine Willows while allowing just four hits.

Yeast had a much tougher time, although he also struck out nine. He gave up nine hits and set the Royals down in order only twice.

Next game in the best-of-seven series is Thursday at King's Stadium. Gib Loseth will likely pitch for the Royals while the

Vernon Bounces Back To Even Baseball Final

Reg Main and the Vernon Luckies thwarted any thoughts by Wayne Leonard. The relay from right field to third base attempting to throw out Monteleone was cut off and fired back to second when Leonard tried to stretch his single into an extra base. Third baseman Loring's throw was bad and went back into right field and allowed Monteleone to score the tying run.

The victory evens the best-of-five series between the clubs at two games apiece, and sets the stage for the crucial fifth and deciding game Sunday in Vernon.

Reg Main, working on only a one-day rest, struck out 16 and limited the Labatts to four hits. Besides his masterful pitching effort, he drove in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning on a bases loaded squeeze bunt.

Vernon now takes over the favorite's role in capturing the title. In the seventh, Vetter fell into trouble as both Bob Adshead and Gordie Nuysens singled to lead off the inning. After both runners advanced on a sacrifice, the dangerous Archer was walked intentionally. Main's squeeze attempt was successful when Adshead scooted home ahead of the throw with the go-ahead run. The inning's second run crossed the plate as Rick Sugden grounded into a force play at second, a play on which shortstop Bob Cox made a diving stop going to his left and threw to first base, preventing further damage from being done.

Singles by Clark Inglis and Adshead, and Nuysens' sacrifice fly produced a single run in the eighth and the game's final run scored in the ninth on base hits by Archer and Sugden.

Main, who has struck out a total of 30 batters in the last two games, fanned the side in the fourth, fifth and ninth innings, and had at least one strike-out in every inning. He walked only one.

Winner of the deciding fifth game will meet the victor in the Kamloops-Penticton series, currently deadlocked at a game apiece.

Main will definitely pitch for Vernon again Sunday, already dimming Labatt hopes of pulling off a major upset by defeating the powerful Luckies who entered the series on the heels of a 13-game winning streak. Either Les Schaefer or Dennis Zinio will challenge Main Sunday. Both pitchers won the two previous Labatt victories.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

Dave Cousins of the Kelowna Buckaroos looks relaxed—what he has on his mind could affect the entire fortunes of the Kelowna Buckaroos junior hockey team this season. Cousins has been attending the Buckaroos junior training camp at the Memorial Arena this week but remains undecided as to where he will play this season, Kelowna or at university. The 19-year-old led the team in scoring last season and is highly regarded in the Buckaroos coach Don Culley's plans. In the meantime, there's no reason for Cousins to worry. —(Courier Photo)

Jack Overwhelming Favorite To Capture Westchester Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Big Jack Nicklaus, defending champion and winner of two straight tour events, is the overwhelming favorite in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic—richest of all pro tournaments.

"The way he's playing, I guess you have to go with Jack," Masters champ Bob Gouby said Tuesday. "He won it last year and the way he's playing now, well..."

The 72-hole event, with a first prize of $50,000, opens Thursday on the 6,648-yard Westchester Country Club course. The big money has drawn all the big names with the exception of Gary Player, at home in South Africa.

The tournament will not be affected by the announcement Tuesday afternoon in New York of a break between the touring pros and the Professional Golfers' Association, but was a major topic of conversation among the players still at the club house.

Today's play will be given over to a pro-am event in which 168 amateurs have paid $1,500 apiece for the privilege of swapping shots with the pros.

That will be Nicklaus' only practice round—but he's not alone in missing practice. He and Arnold Palmer had prior commitments and couldn't practice Tuesday. U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino checked in with a sore shoulder and took a shot of cortisone and the day off.

Other major contenders in the field of about 160 include Bill Casper, PGA champ Julius Boros, Bob Charles of New Zealand, Tom Weiskopf and Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina. But Nicklaus, his game in harness, the putts falling and his appetite whetted by the big money, is the man to beat.

"I don't know about now," said Lee Elder, "but Sunday he was the unbeatable foe." Elder, a 10-year-pro, lost to Nicklaus in a dramatic sudden-death playoff that went to five extra holes in Akron's Golf Classic. Nicklaus also won the Western Open the week before. Crowds will be limited to 20,000 a day for this second Westchester Classic. The first, though plagued by three days of rain, produced a $202,000 for several Westchester hospitals.

Knudson In Large Field For Canadian Golf Title

QUEBEC (CP) — Toronto's George Knudson, one of the most talented golfers in Canadian history, will be among the more than 300 professionals and amateurs today in an 18-hole pro-am tournament of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association.

But the pro-am event is only a minor prelude for Thursday's opening of the 72-hole, $20,000 CPGA championship on the tough course of the Royal Quebec Golf Club in nearby Boischatel.

Knudson is the favorite to win the title, which he has done twice already—in 1964 at Halifax and in 1967 at St. Catharines, Ont.

His heaviest competition for a first-place prize of $3,000 could come from former CPGA winners Moe Norman, Wilf Homenik and Alvie Thompson.

So far this year, Knudson's earnings on the United States circuit have approached $70,000. The winner of the CPGA also will be awarded the Labatt Cup.

168 PROS REGISTER
More than 160 pros are registered for this year's tournament.

Meanwhile, the spotlight Tuesday was on Gerry Proulx, a relative unknown as a "name" golfer, who won the 36-hole seniors' championship with a five-under-par total of 139.

Proulx had trouble with his putter on the first 18 holes Monday, though he still shot a two-under-par 70 to lead the 28-man pack but it was his best club Tuesday.

Proulx, 53, fired a 69 to end six strokes ahead of runner-up Henry Martell of Edmonton, whose total was 145.

His putter had cost him five one-pull greens Monday and he practised for an hour after the round. He even sharpened his putting on the carpet of his motel room.

"Today I was putting much better," said Proulx. "I played like a young man."

PROULEX GETS $750
The victory in the $5,000 tournament for golfers over the age of 50 was worth $750 to Proulx, never in danger of being overtaken.

Martell, third after Monday's action with a 73, was two over par Tuesday with a 72.

Jules Huot of Laval, Que., was third with a 146. He had rounds of 34 and 37 Tuesday after shooting a 75 Monday.

Proulx discounted his chances of winning the CPGA title, although he thought he would finish within the top 10 if he maintained his current game.

He has played five 18-hole rounds at Boischatel since Friday. His highest score was one-over-par 71 and his lowest the 69.

But he has come close to winning the title. He lost in a playoff in 1944 to Gordie Brydson.

REMEMBER WHEN... James Jefferies knocked out James J. Corbett in the 10th round 65 years ago today—in 1903—at San Francisco, defending the world heavyweight boxing title he resigned, still undefeated, in 1905. It was Corbett's last fight, after being champion from 1892 to 1897. Jefferies later tried a comeback of his own, losing his last fight to champion Jack Johnson in 1910.

GWENETH LLOYD of Kelowna, receives an honorary doctorate from Chief Justice C. C. McLaurin of Alberta, chancellor of the University of Calgary, during the opening ceremonies of the new Eric L. Harvie theatre at the Banff School of Fine Arts in July. The photograph was delayed due to the mail strike. Miss Lloyd received her honorary degree in recognition of her work in Canadian ballet, as founder of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet and for many years, head of the Banff School of Fine Arts division. Others from Kelowna attending the theatre opening were designer John Woodworth, Ald. and Mrs. D. A. Chapman and son Bradley, Mrs. Christine DeHart, Dr. and Mrs. John Bennett and A. E. Davis.

Kelowna Well Represented At Opening Of Calgary Theatre

July 12th was Kelowna Day at the Banff School of Fine Arts when Miss Gweneth Lloyd of the Canadian School of Ballet became Doctor Lloyd at ceremonies marking the opening of the theatre complex. The new Eric L. Harvie Theatre, which with its teaching facilities will eventually represent a $2,000,000 investment, was designed by Kelowna architect John Woodworth, who officially presented the keys to the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University of Alberta, owners of the school.

Representing Kelowna at the opening was Ald. David A. Chapman, who spearheaded the building of the Kelowna Community Theatre from which the concept of the Banff theatre was developed. Mrs. Chapman and son Bradley were there for the ceremonies, along with Mrs. Christine DeHart of the Kelowna Theatre Advisory Committee. Dr. and Mrs. John Bennett were in attendance as regional representatives for the Dominion Drama Festival which will be coming to Kelowna next spring.

Another Kelowna man present was Albert E. Davis, former president of Davis and Taylor Construction Ltd. of Kelowna. Mr. Davis was clerk of the works for the owners during the year of major construction, on loan from Mr. Woodworth's office where he is now field superintendent of construction.

Miss Lloyd received her honorary doctorate in recognition of her esteemed position in Canadian ballet, as a founder of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, and for many years head of the Banff School of Fine Arts Ballet Division. Students of the Canadian School of Ballet in the Okanagan have gone on to be famous in international ballet.

Others receiving honorary doctorates at the ceremony were Eric Harvie of Calgary, long-time benefactor of the school, Senator Hartland Molson of Montreal and Archie Keys of the Calgary Arts Council. Doctorates were presented by Chief Justice C. C. McLaurin, Chancellor of the University of Calgary.

The theatre opening address was given by the Hon. Raymond Reardon, who commented favorably on the architectural design of the building with its cedar timbers and Mt. Rundle stonework in a dramatic setting overlooking the Bow Valley from the base of Tunnel Mountain and Mount Cameron. Senator Donald Cameron, head of the school hopes to see the Banff theatre a Western Canadian centre for the performing arts.

ANN LANDERS

You'd Make The Trip With A Broken Leg!

Dear Ann Landers: I don't want my baby and I need to know what to do about it. Before you start to look up homes for unwed mothers let me tell you I am married and have a good husband.

When Bill and I were going together we agreed not to bring any children into this crazy, violent world. We felt it would be unfair. I was six weeks pregnant when we married but didn't know it.

When I told Bill I was pregnant he was surprisingly happy. I told him I was miserable and didn't want the baby. He assured me I would change my mind and for a few days I believed him. Now I know better.

I hate the thought of having a baby and I fear I will do something terrible to him. My feelings are unnatural and I need professional help but we live 70 miles from a mental health clinic and the roads are bad. Also, I don't think a doctor could change my mind. What should I do?—A READER AND FRIEND

Dear Friend: If you had a broken leg you'd make that 70-mile trip, wouldn't you? Well, this is equally urgent. Get going. There is no time to waste.

Dear Ann: I was amused by the letter from the woman who was tired of well-meaning friends and relatives who insisted on "helping" her in the kitchen in spite of her protests. Framed and hanging in my kitchen is a poem that has helped me a lot. Here it is: Please stay away from my kitchen, From my dishwashing, cooking and such. You were kind to have offered to help me. And I do want to thank you so much. I hope you won't think me ungracious. When I ask that you leave me alone, For my kitchen is not very spacious. And my system is strictly my own. So please stay out of my kitchen. It may well prevent a few wars. And when I am invited to Your house, I promise to stay out of yours. —MRS. DOUBLE BOILER

Dear Ann Landers: My parents were cold and unaffectionate. I married at 16—simply because a man paid me the compliment of asking. The magic didn't last very long—less than a year, to be exact. I needed more love than he could give me and I went looking for it. When he learned of my many affairs he divorced me.

My second marriage is now seven years old. I am happier now than I ever dreamed I could be. My husband is an angel. He is all I need or want. Believe me, Ann, I have learned my lesson. But my past is catching up with me. At the club last night I ran into two old flames. I'm sure to run into others—and one of them might say something to my husband, or look at me in a way that will reveal all.

Should I protect myself by telling my husband everything? Please help me. I am — A SHOCK COOKIE

Dear Shock: What happened before you married your husband is history. The only thing he NEEDS to know is that you were married before — and I assume he knows that. Keep quiet.

South Burnaby Wedding Of Interest To Okanagan

The South Burnaby First United Church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and shasta daisies for the evening wedding of Linda Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thomas Pryce of South Burnaby, B.C. and David Gilmour Campbell of North Burnaby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bell Campbell of Westbank.

Rev. Turpin officiated at the double-ring ceremony and the bride's brother, Garry Pryce, accompanied by Trevor Dawson, sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a semi-fitted floor-length gown of peau d'elephant with bodice and three-quarter length bell shaped sleeves of scalloped lace. A long lace train flowed from the bodice, and her headpiece was a cluster of satin roses which held in place layers of shoulder-length tulle. She carried a bouquet of white roses entwined with white satin streamers and ferns.

Her Will To Live Conquers Cancer

TORONTO (CP) — There was a night in March when Mari MacGillivray, a 47-year-old suburban housewife, thought she wouldn't see the morning.

"I thought Frank, my husband, was going to have to eat breakfast alone," she said. "I had given it all I had and I just couldn't fight any longer."

But something happened and "all of a sudden my bones seemed to knit together and I knew I was going to be here tomorrow," she recalled.

For those who are sure they are going to be around tomorrow, this may not have much significance, but Mrs. MacGillivray has been fighting cancer—and winning.

After three major operations for cancer of the chest, Mrs. MacGillivray thought she was losing the fight.

Recently her physician, Dr. Ross A. Dobson, described her progress as "very favorable."

He said more people with cancer could benefit from Mrs. MacGillivray's attitude and should take advantage of every opportunity to enjoy life.

Her determination has kept her busy helping her husband build a small plane in the basement of their home.

For something old and something borrowed the bride wore a pair of diamond drop earrings belonging to her grandmother. Something new was a sterling silver bracelet, a gift from the groom, and something blue was her garter.

A trio of attendants preceded the bride to the altar. The maid of honor was Miss Gay Aitken of South Burnaby. Miss Elaine Pryce, sister of the bride, also of South Burnaby and Miss Ellen Campbell, sister of the groom of Westbank, were the bridesmaids.

The three charming attendants were gowned alike in floor-length dresses of salmon pink peau de soie. The semi-fitted gowns which flowed to a slight train at the back featured a bodice with bateau neckline and three-quarter length bell shaped lace sleeves. Their headpieces were bows of salmon pink peau de soie which held layers of tulle. They wore cultured drop pearls, gifts from the bride, and carried bouquets of yellow carnations surrounded with salmon pink snapdragons and ferns.

The best man was Daryl Hardwicke from Kelowna, and ushering the guests were Fred Grey of Vancouver and John Wilds of North Burnaby, B.C.

At the reception held at the Burnaby Winter Club the bride's mother received wearing a sheath dress of pink peau de soie with a jacket of pink brocade. To complement her outfit she chose accessories of pink and white, and she wore a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother, who assisted her in receiving the guests, chose a sheath dress of aqua blue chiffon over tulle, her accessories were yellow and white and she wore a corsage of yellow roses. As the guests entered the hall they signed the bride and groom's guest book which was presided over by Miss Michelle

Price, cousin of the bride.

The toast to the bride was proposed by her uncle, Don Pryce and was ably responded to by the groom, and the best man Daryl Hardwicke proposed the toast to the bridesmaids.

Telegrams were read from the groom's grandmother and aunt and uncle from Wingham, Ontario.

Centering the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in a yellow and white motif and topped with two doves holding silver wedding rings, nestling under a cluster of white wedding bells. White candles and the bridal party bouquets completed the table decorations.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Hardwicke of Kelowna, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Formby and Marie of Westbank, Steve Hardwicke and Ken Mitchell both of Kelowna, Dick Springer of Westbank and Wayne King of Victoria.

To travel on their honeymoon to Spokane and northern B.C. the bride changed to a rose suit dress of light wool, rose and white hat, white gloves, shoes and purse and a corsage of white roses. On their return the couple will reside at 4075 Dominion St., North Burnaby, B.C. —(By the Westbank Correspondent)

Paris Show Holds Hemlines

PARIS (AP) — Christian Dior recently held hemlines two inches above the knee, and presented a close-to-the-body silhouette that included jackets dropped to wrist length or fingertip length for every hour. For daytime and city wear the longer jackets appeared throughout. For sports he does them in grey flannel or heavy wools. They are always belted and lined with bright colors or muted fall shades which are recalled in the top of the dress or sweater.

Marc Bohan, Dior's designer, is firmly on the gold standard. All that glitters is gold—buttons, embroideries, sequins. Entire sections of dresses or cocktail sheaths are paved in gold sequins.

Mauve And White Is Theme Of Pretty Summer Wedding

Mauve and white hydrangeas decorated the immaculate Conception Church on July 31 for the pretty afternoon ceremony uniting in marriage Carol D'Amore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feist, and Edward Glen Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wally Bennett of McKinley Landing, with Rev. Father Fulkoff officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire styled gown of mauve d'elance, finished with a lace bodice, long lilypoint sleeves, and a lace train which fell gracefully from a bow at the high waist line. A dress of white roses, trimmed with pearls and sequins, held her bouffant shoulder length veil in place, and she wore a cultured pearl necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli and white baby's breath.

Miss Loretta Walls, the maid of honor, and Miss Sue Feist, who was her sister's bridesmaid, wore long sleeveless A-line dresses of mauve peau d'elance, featuring white bows with long streamers in front. They wore cultured pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride, elbow length white gloves, white bows in their hair, and carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies.

The young flower girl was Tami Leigh, sister of the bride, and she wore a long dress of mauve d'elance, styled with a mauve bodice and white skirt, short wrist length white gloves, and a gold locket and chain, a gift from the bride. Her head-dress was a mauve bow, and she carried a miniature of the bride's bouquet.

Acting as best man was the groom's brother, Robert Bennett, and the ushers were Cliff Rojem and the bride's brother, Ken Feist.

The toast to the bride, proposed by Eric Loken, was ably responded to by the groom, and the best man gave the toast to the bridesmaids. D. A. Bennett acted as master of ceremonies, and telegrams were read from Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Sanborn and family of Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Marriot and family of Edmonton, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Feist and Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Feist and Darin, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Voeg and family from Vancouver.

Topping the lovely wedding cake, made by the groom's mother, was a miniature of the bride's bouquet, and looking after the guest book were Ione Yeager and Pat Carter.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Richard Feist of Penitence, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Masil of Vancouver, Randy Abel of Westbank, Randy Quigley of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Crowe-Swords of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bennett of Burnaby.

Ontario Poetess 93 Years Young Was Late Getting Started But ...

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) — It took Minnie McHolm 82 years to get around to publishing some of her poetry. Once she got the hang of it, however, it didn't take long for her to get out a second volume.

After all, when you're 93 years old, you haven't much time to waste.

It all started last year when Mrs. McHolm decided she'd publish some of her poems for a centennial project. Called Ripples by a Quiet Stream, the volume was published privately and Mrs. McHolm received so many requests for it that she had a second edition run off.

Encouraged by her success, Mrs. McHolm recently published a second volume, He, She, and 'The Tattler'. She says she has received requests from libraries across Canada for copies of the two volumes.

Mrs. McHolm usually writes her poems in short bursts. An early riser, she often starts a poem at 6 a.m. and finishes it by 9 a.m. Much of her work is flippant verse or nursery rhyme rewritten.

In He, She and 'The Tattler' most of the verse is written from the viewpoint of a child. Mrs. McHolm and her husband raised their four children in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and many of her poems reflect prairie life.

When her husband died 20 years ago, Mrs. McHolm moved to Port Hope to be near one of her sons. She continued her career as a poet, sending her poetry to countries around the world.

Mays Boosts Marichal To 21st Win Of Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twenty-one is the magic number for Willie Mays and Juan Marichal. Mays needs them and Marichal has them.

Marichal won his 21st game of the season Tuesday night as San Francisco blanked Pittsburgh 3-0 on Mays' 579th career homer—leaving Willie just 21 short of the coveted 600 mark.

The homer was only the second in a month for Mays and his 15th this season. His last one was on Aug. 2, also against the Pirates.

Marichal pitched a two-hitter and now is 14-1 on the road and only 7-4 at home this season.

The shutout was the 37th of his career, placing him second on the all-time Giant list one ahead of Carl Hubbell. Christy Mathewson holds the club record with 83.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago's rampaging

Cubs walloped St. Louis 10-3. New York used three pitchers to shut out Los Angeles 2-0. Cincinnati outslugged Atlanta 9-8 and Houston split a two-night double-header with Philadelphia, winning 5-0 and losing 4-2.

LENGTHY DUEL

Marichal was locked in a scoreless duel with Pittsburgh's Bob Veale until the eighth. Then Hal Lanier walked and Ron Hunt was hit by a pitch, setting the stage for Mays.

The only Pirate hits against Marichal were a leadoff single by Maury Wills in the first and a one-out single by Donn Clendenon in the second. Two walks helped Pittsburgh load the bases with two out in the second, but Marichal struck out Veale to end the threat.

The Cubs, valiantly trying to create a pennant race in the NL, beat St. Louis for the seventh straight time with Ron Santo driving in four runs on a double and a homer.

The victory left the second place Cubs 12 games back of the Cardinals.

New York's Don Cardwell had the Dodgers shut out on three hits until the ninth, but when Len Gabrielson and Willie Davis opened with singles, Met manager Gil Hodges brought on southpaw Billy Short to face left-handed batter Tom Haller.

The strategy worked with Haller, attempting to bunt, forcing Gabrielson at third. Then Hodges brought Cal Koonce in to retire Ken Boyer and Bob Bailey and wrap it up.

CARDENAS TIES IT

Leo Cardenas' ninth-inning homer tied the game for Cincinnati and the Reds beat the Braves in the 10th on Mack Jones' double and a run-scoring single by Tony Perez.

The Reds tagged 19 hits—four of them by Pete Rose—and the Braves had 16 safeties. Fred Whitfield drove in three runs with a single and his first homer of the year for Cincinnati while Felix Millan and Bob Johnson had three hits each and Tito Francona three RBI for Atlanta.

Don Wilson pitched a four-hitter and Doug Rader tagged a two-run homer, helping Houston to its first-game victory over Philadelphia.

Rich Allen's two-run homer in the second inning of the nightcap halted a 30-inning Philadelphia scoring drought and the Phillies gained the split when Gary Sutherland's pinch single drove in the tie-breaking run in a two-run seventh inning rally.

Carew Pulls Ahead Of Flick But Oliva Closing In Fast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rod Carew is winning his match race with Elmer Flick ... and Tony Oliva aims to make it a Twin Double.

Carew, the American League's leading hitter, cracked a double and two singles raising his average five points to .309 as Minnesota clubbed Washington 8-4 Tuesday night.

Oliva, the Twins' two-time batting champion, also drilled three hits to hold the No. 2 spot behind Carew and climb within two points of the elusive .300 mark.

Flick, an old-time Cleveland outfielder, won the 1905 batting title with a .306 mark ... the lowest ever for a league leader. A month ago, it appeared the 1968 AL king would have the dubious distinction of lowering Flick's standard.

But Carew has launched a torrid August spree and Oliva, back in the lineup after recovering from a leg injury, is starting to match his team-mate stride for stride.

In other American League games, Cleveland nipped first place Detroit 1-0 on Sonny Siebert's three-hitter; second place Baltimore shaded Oakland 6-5; Boston nudged Chicago 4-3 and New York trimmed California 3-2.

Oliva's three singles, good for three RBI, helped the Twins stake rookie Tom Hall to an 8-2 early lead and the 20-year-old left-hander posted his first major league victory with late relief help from Al Worthington.

Carew extended his hitting streak to 12 games with a pair of scratch singles and a two-run double. The Twins' second baseman halted a 30-inning Philadelphia scoring drought and the Phillies gained the split when Gary Sutherland's pinch single drove in the tie-breaking run in a two-run seventh inning rally.

Siebert struck out eight and stranded two Detroit runners on third in halting the Tigers' four-game winning streak. Larry Brown's bases-loaded single in the second inning delivered the only run of the game.

The Cleveland right-hander weathered a one-out triple by Mickey Stanley in the first inning, but did not allow another hit until Norm Cash singled in the seventh.

Don Buford, whose two-run single in the fourth broke a 3-2 tie, accounted for the Orioles' winning marker with a ninth-inning homer before relievers John Morris and Eddie Watt checked a last-ditch Oakland comeback at one run.

KNOCKED OUT EARLY

Baltimore's Dave McNally, bidding for his eighth straight victory, was knocked out in the fourth but Pete Richert hurled 3 1-3 innings of scoreless relief for his second victory in two nights.

Money Spent For Entrance

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver Canucks spent the first of $6,000,000 they expect to pay out before they gain entry to the National Hockey League.

A $1,000,000 expenditure gave the Western League club ownership of 31 players belonging to Rochester Americans of the American League, and club directors hailed the move as a step closer to the NHL plateau.

"There's no question that we must form the nucleus of a good club before we move into the NHL," said club director Coleman E. Hall.

"We must show the NHL that we mean business—and we've done it."

In addition to the players, the Canucks also got Joe Crozier, coach and general manager at Rochester for the last four years. During that span the Americans won three AHL crowns.

Crozier will become general manager of both the Canucks and Rochester. He signed a three-year contract with the Vancouver Hockey Club Ltd. and is also a shareholder in the club.

McMAHON CONFIDENT

"We are very lucky to make this kind of a deal and I am confident it will work out," said director Frank McMahon, who along with Fred B. Brown, another director, made the Canucks' pitch to the NHL board of governors last June.

"I got the feeling that good players were not available. You just can't go out and buy players like we did. I'm very happy about the deal."

Actual purchase price for the Rochester players was $950,000 plus $50,000 in legal and other professional fees.

Player Revolt Staggers Golf; New Tour Planned By Pros

NEW YORK (AP) — The multi-million-dollar structure of big time tournament golf trembled today under the impact of a player revolt that left sponsors, television officials and the pros themselves in a state of chaos and confusion.

"I think we had to take the action, but I'm a little scared," said Masters champion Bob Goalby, expressing the sentiments of a large number of the affluent golfing gypsies.

"I signed with the players, but I haven't been on any of the ground work," said Arnold Palmer, the game's richest and perhaps most popular competitor. "I think this action may result in more negotiation. It would be better if the PGA and players could work together."

"I've received calls from all over the country in the past few weeks from sponsors who are fed up to here," said Angus M. Mairs of Minneapolis, president of the International Golf Sponsors Association, representing 33 of the 43 men who put up the $5,600,000 to conduct the rich pro tour.

Mairs and other sponsors indicated they probably would line up with the players in the dispute with the ruling Professional Golfers Association. A meeting of sponsors has been called for Houston Sept. 5-6.

Bringing a long-simmering feud to a sudden and dramatic head, the players announced in New York Tuesday that they were breaking with the PGA and preparing to set up a tour of their own.

Through their attorney, Sam Gates of New York, they said they planned no immediate boycott but would honor all existing contracts, which include all 1968 tournaments and at least a couple in 1969—the Bob Hope Classic at Palm Desert, Calif., and the Doral at Miami.

The $250,000 Westchester Classic Opens at Rye, N.Y., Thursday.

But a number of questions remain unanswered:

What about the new, two-year contract signed recently by the PGA with the American Broadcasting Company, giving ABC the right to televise virtually every big tournament except the Masters?

"The PGA had to promise the network a representative field," a spokesman close to the TV negotiations said. "It's unreasonable to believe the PGA could hold the ABC to the contract if it couldn't produce the top players."

What is going to be the reaction of the club pros, who make up the bulk of the PGA membership with a total of 5,800 compared with 280 touring pros?

"I think most of the club pros will back us up when they hear the real story," said touring pro Dick Sikes.

"The club pros may overrule their own officers," added Goalby.

The PGA has called a meeting of the executive committee Friday at the national headquarters in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., to discuss plans.

"We are 52 years old and we built and nurtured the tour from nothing," said Leo Fraser of Atlantic City, N.J., the PGA secretary who is slated to succeed Max Elbin of Washington, D.C., as president.

"You may rest assured we will always have a tour."

This statement gave rise to speculation that there may be two rival tours—one with the current star players under a new organization, the other a PGA circuit with newcomers.

"The guys in the saddle now can't last forever," said one PGA official.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The bidding:
 North 1♠ Pass
 East 1♥ Pass
 South 2♥ Pass
 West 3♥ Pass

Opening lead—king of clubs.
 The slam undertaking was undoubtedly tempting opposite North's strong bidding. South had hoped to find better spades in dummy, in which case there would have been little to the play.

Declarer won the club lead with the ace and led a low trump, West taking the ace. West decided declarer had to have the ace of hearts for his slam bid and therefore led another club to force a ruff in dummy.

When the king of spades was then cashed, West showed out and declarer still had East's J-9 of trump to contend with. He ran the entire diamond suit, discharging a club and all five of his hearts as East steadfastly refused to ruff.

 On the last diamond, ad South was forced to ruff and had to concede a trump trick to East for down one. West's second club lead, combined with East's refusal to ruff, a trump, proved to be more than declarer could cope with.
 However, South missed his cue. He should have made the slam. He failed to draw an important inference during the play which would have led to fulfillment of the contract.
 When declarer led the two of spades toward the king at trick two and West went up with the ace, South should have given serious thought to the possibility that West's ace was a singleton.
 Aces were made to capture and destroy the enemy's honors. To waste an ace in order to win a deuce cannot very well be unless the play is forced. South should therefore have read West's ace play as denoting a singleton.
 Faced with this situation, South should have protected against it. When the club is returned, dummy should ruff, but the king of spades should not be cashed.
 Instead, a low diamond should be trumped, followed by a spade to the king. Now declarer has the Q-10 of spades alone to cope with East's J-9. When the diamond suit is run, East must eventually ruff and bow to South's superior trump holding.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
 Excellent stellar influences should bring great happiness to the married, as well as fostering new romance among the single. Also favored, under a beneficent Venus aspect, are artistic and cultural pursuits.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
 If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that you are presently entering a period in which it would be advisable to make constructive plans for advancing all worthwhile undertakings. Plans launched now, and cleverly followed up, should result in gratifying occupational and financial gains by the end of October, with further boosts star-promised during the first two weeks of January, in late February, the latter halves of March and May and throughout next June and July. Where monetary interests are concerned, however, do be extremely conservative in late September and throughout October when, despite promised gains, you may be faced with some unexpected expenses. On the job front, be careful not to antagonize superiors during the first two weeks of November.

 For those who are single, the most auspicious months for new romance and/or marriage include October, next April and June. The oncoming October will also be propitious for travel and entertaining social activities; also, January, April, May and June. Creative workers should do exceptionally well between now and the end of January; also next June.
 A child born on this day will be endowed with great versatility; also, with a gift for imagery, would make an excellent writer, painter or musical composer.

George Reed Has Sore Toe

OTTAWA (CP) — George Reed has a dislocated toe. Some cripple.
 He played half a game last week until the pain put him out. And he will start again at full-back tonight for Saskatchewan Roughriders when they meet their Canadian Football League cousins, the Rough Riders of Ottawa.
 "It's sore," grunted coach Eagle Keys Tuesday. "He's all right."
 Trainer Sandy Archer does not quite share the view, and Reed himself missed an evening workout.
 "I don't know whether he can play the whole game or not," Archer said.
 "But he has played before with injuries. Both knees, ribs, shoulders, an ankle. Some players can do it."
 A plastic cap has been fashioned for the foot, injured in Riders' first game of the season July 30.
 The game, nationally televised by CTV starting at 8 p.m. EDT, pits the only undefeated clubs in the CFL. Saskatchewan has two wins and a tie, Ottawa two wins.

KELOWNA SAILOR DESCRIBES SUB

Governor-General and Mrs. Michener while embarked in the helicopter-destroyer HMCS Assiniboine took the opportunity, between official visits to several Newfoundland and Quebec ports, to get acquainted with their home afloat. Here in the warship's engine room, Governor-General Michener listens while Lieut. Robert L. Life Of Eskimos, Indians Marked By Crime, Drink

LONDON (CP) — Life among the Eskimos and Indians in Canada's Northwest Territories is characterized by indolence, petty crime, promiscuity and alcoholism, says Dr. J. M. C. Hellon of Edmonton, a University of Alberta psychiatrist.

Speaking before the International Conference on Mental Health, Hellon suggested that "misapplied benevolence in the form of social assistance and education" has contributed to the problems in the north where "a painful transition" in culture has also produced an increase in mental illness.

Following a tour of the area as a consultant psychiatrist, Hellon found that public aid and public health measures have increased life expectancy but there no longer is the great urge to hunt and fish for survival.

Introduction of stone carving and lithography as substitutes for the old way of life has "done little to supply the native with a respectable means of support," Hellon said.

70 COUNTRIES PRESENT

Hellon is among about 100 Canadians attending the week-long conference where some 1,700 delegates from about 70 countries are delving into every aspect of mental health, including the impact of drugs and birth control.

Professor G. M. Carstairs of Edinburgh University, who opened the conference Monday, said he personally shared the concern of many persons within and outside the Roman Catholic Church about the "adverse" effects Pope Paul's encyclical may have on campaigns to limit families and "also upon personal relationships within the family."

However, he added later it would be premature to link mental health with any special method of birth control or to criticize the Pope's encyclical outright. The Pope obviously had gone into the subject deeply and the world federation had not.

Hellon's paper, prepared for a panel dealing with the problems of assimilating minorities, said that in the Northwest Territories education is compulsory but jobs are scarce.

ALCOHOL A PROBLEM

"There has occurred a subtle and serious destruction of personal and group integrity as a result of the provision of social assistance which renders work unnecessary and indeed unprofitable. . . . Some things have been learned from the white man by a process of imitation and not the least serious of these is the excessive and habitual use of alcohol."

In Hay River 60 per cent of the adult natives had been convicted of offences involving alcohol, he said.

The presence of mental illness in the natives was indicated by the high suicide rate among Eskimos—about 18.8 per cent per 100,000 population compared with 7.2 per cent per 100,000 for Canada as a whole.

One reason for the high suicide rate was the lack of motivation resulting from the easy provision of unearned benefits from an imposed culture. This led to less of self-esteem and adoption of a life pattern similar to depression.
